

We suggest you thinking over the following saying of Moore

"If you want to be successful, you must look successful".

Comment on the statement and write an essay.

Maybe some of us heard the quotation of one famous person Moore by name. It sounds like this: "If you want to be successful, you must look successful" But is it really important to have a smart outlook? This question has always worried people and the answer to it is not simple.

On the one hand, the first impression is very important. If you are smartly dressed, you make a positive impression on people around you. Thus you make friends easily. Besides, if you have a successful outlook people trust you more easily.

Also, an appearance may influence the person's self-confidence. If somebody looks on the smartly dressed person, who has shine in eyes, a confident gait and a dazzling smile, he thinks that good-looking person is highly successful.

On the other hand, in many cases attractive outlook is only a superficial judgment about any man. Even though a person looks perfectly, he may turn out to be silly, absolutely shallow, having neither knowledge nor wide outlook, own thoughts and ideas. For all that, availability of high intellect is more valuable than outward form. An example for this is the famous American genius of our age Steve Jobs, which didn't worry about his outlook, but rely on eternal "luggage", consisting of abilities and knowledge.

To sum up, I strongly believe that no matter how the person looks like, his inner world is more important than his appearance and dress. Therefore, I would rather prefer to act successfully and create something than showing off by clothes, make up, etc.
